International Certificate Course in Adventure Tourism: Challenges & Opportunities

5 Days

Online Certification Course

27-31 July 2020 (IST 11:00 hours to 13.00 hours everyday)

International Certification Program Background

The travel and tourism industry is grounded completely since February 2020 and menacing clasp of Covid-19 pandemic derailed expectations of the millions pinned around this crucial segment of the economy. International tourism is staring at a staggering decline to the tune of 60-80% in 2020. The loss in actual terms would be 850 million to 1.1 billion international arrivals. Such a massive slump in arrivals could eventually translate in to the loss of US$910 billion to US$1.2 trillion in export revenues from tourism. UNWTO estimates further suggest that it could risk 100 to 120 million direct tourism jobs.

Adventure tourism industry assumes a niche positioning and it has been growing consistently. As per some estimates, global adventure tourism industry was worth $586.3 billion in 2018 and is projected to reach $1,626.7 billion by 2026, at a CAGR of 13.3% during 2019-26. The Pandemic has jeopardized this promising tourism segment at least temporarily. Still, unlike many other segments, recreational adventure activities are relatively better positioned for resumption owing to its low-intense nature that allows it to observe the pandemic safety protocols and practices. The location of destinations would also add to the consumer confidence.

With the destinations looking ahead of resuming the operations, it becomes imperative to dwell on various propositions and to exchange the concepts and best practice models. Many critical facets of tourism operations are internationalized, and therefore, the exchange and engagements of international scholarship and expertise is going to determine the pace of the process. With this specific objective, National Institute of Watersports, a Centre under Indian Institute of Tourism and Travel Management announces an 'International Webinar-cum-Certification'.

About NIWS

The National Institute of Watersports (NIWS) has been setup by the Ministry of Tourism as an 'apex' body for training, education, consultancy and research to usher in an era of leisure-water sporting segment in the country.

It is the first Institute of this nature in the South East Asia covering the entire range of water sport disciplines such as life saving, boat handling, sailing, windsurfing, water skiing, scuba diving, river rafting and kayaking.

The Institute is envisaged to function as a model for similar initiatives/ entrepreneurs with regard to faculty and staff, training infrastructure, water sport equipment and specialised repair and berthing facilities. Plans are being conceived to expand the activities to encompass other adventure sporting items so as to transform it into an 'Institute of Adventure Sports'.
